Word Structure is a peer-reviewed, international journal of linguistic morphology and all related disciplines. Its outlook is both synchronic and diachronic. Its interests are both empirical and theoretical. Its aim is to further the understanding of the nature of words, in every sense and in the broadest definition, in the languages of the world by applying to that concept the methodologies of disciplines such as morphology, syntax and phonology, of sociolinguistics and psycholinguistics, of formal, computational, cognitive and historical linguistics and of any other relevant sub-discipline of linguistics.

Articles of Interest

- ‘Word and pattern morphology: An information-theoretic approach’ - Farrell Ackerman and Robert Malouf
- ‘A study of English blends: From structure to meaning and back again’ - Natalia Beliaeva
- ‘The English compound stress myth’ - Heinz J. Giegerich
